

Executive Team Leadership

Acquire the skills to build and lead an effective executive leadership team

Start Date
Nov 16

Duration
5 days

Mode of Delivery: Hybrid

Overview

Globalisation, economic uncertainty, stiff competition and the general complexities of today's business are compelling CEOs to depend on inter-disciplinary diversity-based strategic thinking for organisational success. Consequently, teamwork has become an indispensable organisational tool for developing and managing strategies required to successfully tackle today's global challenges. Teaming behaviours exhibited at the executive level dictates the level of teamwork for the rest of the organisation as the C-suite leads teamwork mental model development. This seminar is designed to impart the critical skills required to build and lead an effective and efficient executive team and to replicate this model of teamwork down and across the organisational pyramid.

Learning Objectives and Benefits

Participants on this programme will learn:

- Concepts and frameworks that will help to align and integrate their organisation's teamwork practices with competitive strategy.
- Be able to translate, align, and integrate their firm's competitive, customer, and shareholder requirements into organisation-wide teamwork practices.
- Read and interpret environmental indicators and how to adapt to environmental changes.

Who Should Attend

- This programme will benefit CEOs and direct reports to CEOs of large organisations as well as mid-sized organisations experiencing a growth surge.
- It is highly recommended that CEOs attend with their reports create the initial bonding that will be continued on after the seminar.
